Dear Mr Casey

I appreciate your invitation for me to discuss my intelligence needs with your component chiefs the next time I'm in Washington. Frankly, I don't really believe I could add anything that has not already been said.

In my meeting with John McMahon last summer, I spelled out our needs in some detail. John agreed wholeheartedly and indicated his support for a resident CIA representative at this headquarters.

In reviewing my letter to you of 12 August 1983, I find no change to the requirement as stated there in greater detail and would only repeat my earlier assurance to John McMahon that MAC would provide the manpower authorizations required.

Once again, I am eager to strengthen the close working relationship we have always enjoyed with your fine organization and to reassure you that I am ready to provide your representative the support, facility, and personal access to me that he will require.

Sincerely
